Graceville Florist and Forget Me Not Tea Room

The Forget Me Not Tea Room at Graceville.

Seven day trade proves popular for high tea

The Forget Me Not Tea Room opened its doors to seven day trading on 21 November, 2010. Many guests have taken the opportunity to visit the tea room for the first time and many have booked their high tea function for a Sunday. As interest in the Tea Room continues to grow if you are considering Forget Me Not for your next function be sure to book ahead to avoid disappointment. Open 7 days, 10am to 4pm.

flood news

We all heard about the devastation the floods caused at the start of the year. The Tea Room was lucky to escape the flood waters but many of our customers and residents of the surrounding area were not so lucky. The Forget Me Not Tea Room donated all tip money throughout January to the flood appeal through the Commonwealth Bank. We wanted to let everyone know that we are open for business, we are thinking of our customers who have been devastated and if you need a break from it all you are welcome to pop in to the tea room for a tea or coffee.

Website launched for the Graceville Florist

The Graceville Florist is located inside the Forget Me Not Tea Room. We have recently launched a website for the Florist. You can now order flower arrangements online at www.gracevilleflorist.com.au.

Book for mothers day

The tea room will again open for high tea on Mothers Day. Due to the overwhelming response last year we will aim for three sittings this year. Phone the tea room on 3379 6402 to book your table.

New on the menu

Step back in time, enjoy the elegant surrounds, music from a different generation, bone china and full table service in air conditioned comfort.

We have added home made lasagne and Thai chicken salad to our menu recently and we still offer over 30 teas and DiBella coffee.

Other menu items include a wide range of cakes, home baked scones, sandwiches with old fashioned fillings, a selection of light meals including gourmet pies, forget me not salad and quiche or if you want that special treat enjoy our High Tea.
